BEITER THAN GOUGH.—A week or two since a little incident occurred at Cape Grardeau, an account of which, it is heped, Mr. Gough will incorporate in his lectures, it will point a discourse and add effect to the moral. A character, not described by the second of the control of not decomewhat for loading around barrooms, was sitting in his usual place of resort, with several compatriots, about a card table, killing time with the pasteboards. Saddenly his wife entered the room, bearing a large covered dish, which she deposited on the table with the remark: "Presuming, husband, that you were too busy to come home to dinner. I have brought yours to you," and then departed. The husband invited his companions to share his meal and removed the lid from the dish, revealing no smoking roast, but, instead, a slip of paper, only this and nothing more, on which was written: "I hope you will enjoy your dinner; it is of the same kind your family has at home."—Jackson Cashbook.

MAESHALL, TANKY, CHASE.—A paragraph is going the rounds of some newspapers, stating that neither of these eminent men left male descendants. This is a mistake as to the former. Chief Justice Marshall, who died in 1835, had five sons, viz: Thomas Jaquelin, James, John and Edward. The former senior editor of this paper had the pleasure of serving in a legislative capacity with forwards, the was The P. West danger of the honorable and nonseas name of Marshall becoming extinct. Thomas, the eldest, was killed in Baltimore by some falling bricks from the PIOCHE......NEVADA, more by some falling bricks from the chimney of the Court House during a gale of wind. Edward C., the youngest son is yet living in Fauquier County, Virginia.—[Free Press.

Peorle who are not sure of heaven are flocking to Danville, New Hampshire, this summer. There is not a lawyer, doctor, lightning-rod man, sewing machine agent, or hotel clerk in the place, while more than four hundred beautiful, long-haired, rosychecked, bright-eyed maidens, with natural teeth and white dresses meander through the origin-eyed mandens, with natural teeth and white dresses meander through the streets at eventide, chewing gum and smiling on the few young men who have heard of this elysium before.
